

Rachel Brockie, Relationship Manager for The Children's Society, is delighted to be attending Deanery Synod on Saturday, 17th November, and looks forward to speaking with you at her stand.

The Children's Society works with children in this country who feel scared, unloved and unable to cope. We run over 100 services across the country that tackle the serious issues affecting children today. Through our services and campaigning, we listen, support and act to improve the lives of the most vulnerable children in this country.

From our history in the vision and actions of a young Sunday school teacher at the end of the nineteenth century, our work has been grounded in the churches at local and national levels. The churches constitute our core partners, and we work very closely with the Church of England as part of a movement for change. We can support churches to educate and inform parishioners about some of the challenging social justice issues which can affect the young in our society today.

Well known for introducing the Christingle service into the country, this year we celebrate its 50th Anniversary, and have provided a wealth of additional resource for this year's supporter. Visit us at our stand, or go to www.christingle.org for further information.

If you don't get a chance to visit us on the 17th, then please feel free to contact
